

Dear Brookline Students,

All didactic nursing and non-nursing program courses will be conducted online starting 3/16/2020.

For nursing students in clinical or SIM labs courses, with few exceptions these sections will not run on Monday 3/16. We will provide updates on these courses as they come available.

Students in Adult Health I simulation, this class will run on campus tomorrow.

NOTE:

- You will be notified if your online course is NOT available with a live lecture option.
- For courses with live lectures online, you will be expected to attend the lecture which will run at the normal course time. Attendance will be taken.
 - We understand that many student's schedules have been impacted with the closure of the K-12 schools. If you cannot attend the live lecture you will be required to view the recorded version to be marked in attendance.
- You do not need a webcam to view live lectures.
- Students can access asynchronous online courses via Moodle using PC, tablet or mobile phone.
- Campuses will be open for any student that needs access to technology or internet.
- Brookline will have staff and administrators at each campus tomorrow to assist students with questions.

Thank you
